1. The Comcar slaughterhouse in Bucharest is located on Calea Dudesti in the direction of Targoviste. It employs about two thousand, two hundred workers. The Comcar slaughters two thousand to three thousand cows, pigs, sheep, and horses a day.
 - a. About one thousand to one thousand five hundred sheep daily.
 - b. About thirty horses daily.
 - c. About eight hundred cows daily.
 - d. About four hundred pigs daily.

About six hundred of the slaughtered animals are for the Bucharest area, and the remainder are exported to the Soviet Union. The animals are brought to the Comcar slaughterhouse by railroad.

2. About two thousand pigs and cows are kept in stock at Ferma Calea Rahovei, seven kilometers outside Bucharest on the right side of Calea Rahovei. When the Comcar is low on animals from the surrounding country it takes them from the Ferma (Calea Rahovei Farm).
3. Another six hundred to seven hundred cows and pigs are slaughtered daily solely for export. They are placed in frigidaires in the area of Obor, known as Frigidaire Obor. At Frigidaire Obor are also kept fish, cheese, and butter awaiting export to the Soviet Union.
4. Frigidaire Obor is located on Strada Obor, streetcar line Number 7. It has four floors. It has 50 frigidaire compartments, with a capacity of 40,000 to 50,000 kilograms each, or five to six carload capacity. There are two large frigidaire compartments in the basement, and each compartment has a capacity of 100 carloads.
5. Frigidaire Obor has two freight elevators whereby products are taken into the basement compartments and then loaded onto freight cars. Once a week about forty or fifty refrigerator cars are loaded with meat, fish, butter, and cheese for the Soviet Union.

6. The Comcar frigidaire operates with cold air and meat is kept here only twenty-four hours. About one thousand slaughtered animals can be stored in the refrigerator. The Comcar has four slaughterhouse stalls.
7. The slaughterhouse in Galati is known as Abaterul Galati and is located on Bariera Brailiei. It has 50 workers and is subordinate to the Comcar. The meat slaughtered here is only for Galati. Three times weekly about one hundred and fifty to two hundred animals are slaughtered for the Rumanian Army in Galati, hospitals, canteens, and public consumption. Only cows are being slaughtered now. There is no frigidaire so meat is distributed immediately after it is slaughtered.
8. The Galati abattoir slaughters meat for the public on Mondays, Wednesdays, and Fridays. The Soviet Army slaughters meat for itself (about fifty animals each week) on Tuesdays, Thursdays, Saturdays, and sometimes Sundays.
